MR. CHAIRMAN: As far as I have seen—I am told that according to "The Rajya Sabha at Work", the Member in response to whom the earlier answer was given and which is sought to be corrected by the Minister, may be allowed to seek a brief clarification after the statement is made. The supplementary question on the correction may also be permitted at the discretion of the Chairman. Now, I would permit Shri Salim to put the supplementary to the hon. Minister, if he so desires.

SHRI MD. SALIM: Sir, it is not a question of my putting a question. It is a question of the right of the House. I am thankful to you that you have accepted it. Had it been laid on the Table of the House, the question could not have arisen. The Minister has read out the entire answer without circulating the answer to the Members. The question is the Minister should not have read out the entire statement in the form of correcting the earlier answer without circulating it to the Members. He has circulated it to the concerned Member and not to other Members. Sir, in spite of your intervention, other Members' right to seek clarifications and putting supplementaries has been denied.
